The Kidney and the Vascular System:
Emerging Culprits in Pathogenesis and
Advances in Therapy

April 15-18, 2010 / Kyoto, Japan

This Nexus symposium addresses recent advances of translational research and clinical medicine on the intriguing links between the kidney and extra-renal vascular system. Newer culprits involved in vascular alterations, such as mineral metabolism, oxygen disorders, adipobiology, pointed by recent cutting-edge discoveries, will be highlighted to better understand pathologies of cardio-renal syndrome and bone-vascular connection, as well as identify promising targets for innovative, future therapies.

Translational Sessions

- Mineral Metabolism
- Oxygen Disorders
- Adiposcience
- Promising Targets for Future Therapy

Clinical Sessions

- Cardio-renal Syndrome
- Bone-Vascular connection
- Renovascular benefits of cardiovascular drugs
- Recent Therapeutic Advances

Important Dates

Abstracts Submission Deadline
January 15, 2010

Early Registration Deadline
January 15, 2010

Chair

Hirofumi Makino (Japan)
President of the Japanese Society
